

Joshua Goines

Joshua Goines is a proud native of New Orleans, Louisiana. He is completing a Bachelor of Arts in music with an organ emphasis degree from Andrews University. Joshua has served as organist and music director at Chapel Hill United Methodist Church, choral and handbell director at Shenandoah Valley Academy, organist of First Presbyterian Church in Staunton, VA, and associate music director at First Presbyterian Church in South Bend, IN. Currently, Joshua is the organist at First United Methodist Church of Mishawaka, IN. For the past several years he has been a worship leader and music director at Pioneer Memorial Church on the campus of Andrews University.

Recently, Joshua has been involved in the musical theater scene of Southwest Michigan as a music director or orchestra pit member for productions at Lake Michigan College, Southwestern Michigan College, the Twin City Players, as well as some work with the Southwest Michigan Symphony Orchestra.

Joshua is also active as a choral conductor, collaborative pianist, singer, arranger, and composer. On the campus of Andrews University, Joshua is no stranger to the music scene. From 2008-2013 he conducted Journey Ministries International, he is also a member of the Andrews University Singers and recently was a soloist for their "Welcome Christmas" concert featuring Handel's Messiah.

Mr. Goines has been a guest lecturer in Germany at the Youth in Mission Conference and most recently clinician for the Indiana Conference of Seventh-day Adventists music festival.
